TWO PERSPECTIVES ON THE LAKES—Game Warden Gayland Brackett and State Rep. Ida Luther discuss legislating and enforcing boating laws with members of the Community Lakes Association of Woodstock and Greenwood. Lake association draws its largest crowd

By MICHAEL DANIELS

"You can't legislate common sense. When some people get behind the wheel of a boat their mentality deteriorates to less than a 12-year-old's," Game Warden Gayland Brackett told the nearly 50 people turned out Saturday for the annual meeting of the Community Lakes Association of Woodstock and Greenwood.

According to association members, it was the largest turnout in the history of the three-year-old organization, which lists over 200 members and is committed to protecting and improving the water quality of the two towns' many lakes.

While the association is concerned with all topics, especially pollution, that affect water quality, the discussion at Saturday's meeting focused on boating laws.

"The major issue is clearly regulation of pleasure boating," said outgoing president Eleanor Wilson.

State Representative Ida Luther told the members that if they strongly supported proposed regulations, such as last year's unsuccessful bill to ban jet skis, then they had to write their representatives and the key committee members to let them know.

Luther represents House District 82, which includes Woodstock. She was the only office holder or challenger to attend the meeting, although everyone running for office this year was invited, according to Wilson.

Letters do count, Luther told the association members, "especially when the people who make (jet skis) want to sell them"—and will be sure to have paid lobbyists to present their case in August.

For people who can't sit out the legislative process in Augusta, personal letters are the answer, she said. Hundreds of postcards printed with identical messages don't carry much weight with legislators, and three-page letters often go unread, but a thoughtful one-page letter on an issue can have a real impact.

Luther also urged the audience to write in support of increased funding for the Warden Service, the key agency in enforcing laws already on the books.

There are just not enough game wardens to go around, she argued. "We've got to get more money into the warden service," she said, noting that whenever there is a budget crisis, the Warden Service is usually forced to absorb a disproportionate amount of funding cutbacks.

Many in the audience concurred, including Warden Brackett: "I've been a warden for 18 years," he said, "and as far as I know we've been cut every year."

Excessive speed on the water was the primary concern of most in the audience.

Aside from presenting an obvious danger to other boaters and to swimmers, a speeding boat leaves a wake that can erode the shoreline, disturb wildlife and damage docks.

But the boating regulations governing speeding and other hazardous behavior are difficult to enforce, especially in the absence of a warden to document the offense.

Some members suggested finding a way to hire extra deputies, off-duty wardens, or even a harbor master to patrol the local lakes. But others argued that the association's limited resources would be better spent on increasing public awareness of current boating regulations.

"We could have much greater impact with an educational campaign," said Steve Wright, chairman of the board of the Maine Conservation School.

Not everyone agreed. Too many people will still violate the laws, said Mary Jane McNinis. "Education is terrific, but you still have people who consistently refuse (to obey the law)," she said.

The members did agree, however, to set up a committee to help inform the public about the one boating regulation that appears to be most often violated—the requirement that boats maintain only headway speed (the speed needed to

Andover selectmen plan to take action on dump violators

At the Andover Selectmen meeting Tuesday night, the selectmen voted to take legal action against violators of a July 1989 town ordinance, which states, "dumping garbage except within the designation at the town dump shall be punishable by a fine of $250."

Six bags of trash were left between the gate and the tire pile. The town constables will be notified and the violators appropriately summoned. A Roxbury Pond resident who tried to leave trash at the town dump was turned away by Mel Dow who is in charge of the dump.

Steve Swasey of Andover was the successful bidder on 3,500 yards of screened sand at $4.35 per yard. The hourly bid for bulldozer work was not accepted and Swasey will be contacted to see if he is agreeable with the use of a smaller bulldozer.

Town administrative assistant Rebecca Schachter called Tony Puta of State Cable T.V. this week as to when the cable T.V. installation in Andover will be completed and he assured her all areas contracted for would have cable by the end of the summer. He said the delay has been due to having to obtain rights-of-way from Central Maine Power in some instances.

Materials will be put out to bid this week for both the possible addition to the present town office and the remodeling of the Town Hall. Everett Mayberry has submitted a list of materials for the town office addition and bidders can also check out the plans for the Town Hall renovation submitted by David Hawkes.

A hole will be dug near the present town office this week to check the efficiency of the septic system. An estimated cost of both projects will be completed in time for a vote at the special August town meeting. Also to be included in the warrant at this meeting will be an article requesting a $40,000 allotment for the addition to the town office which was tabled at the regular Town Meeting.

The selectmen drafted and signed a protest letter to SAD #44 in regard to chairs borrowed from the town for school activities. The chairs, which were counted before pickup at the insistence of the selectmen, were left in a pile in the Town Hall when returned and had to be put away by the Town Hall custodian. Also 50 chairs which were supposed to be returned to the Town Hall were left at the Andover Elementary School.

NEW COAT—Peter Young, left, Joe Campbell and David Annis on the roller, laid a skim-coat of hot top on the sidewalk in front of Prim's Pharmacy and Skidder's Deli last week. Town Clerk Merton Brown said the new coat was needed because the sidewalk surface in places had worn down to the dirt. (Photo by Christy Cross)

Mel Dow assured the selectmen that the cost of the repair of the fountain on the Common would not exceed $400-$500, including materials. Work is expected to begin on Monday after the highway department lifts the fountain.

A list of personal property assessments has been submitted to the selectmen by assessor Michael Austin, which will be reviewed by the selectmen before the next meeting, with any additions or problems to be discussed at that time. The warrant for the special August town meeting is being prepared.

Gould asks for more access to Bethel's sewers

By CHRISTY CROSS

A representative of Gould Academy asked the Bethel selectmen Monday night for permission to tie into the town's sewer line, as an alternative to disposing of the school's "boiler blowdowns" in Mill Brook and Sanding Brook.

Gould Academy made the request at the urging of the Department of Environmental Protection.

But the selectmen, concerned about the average 400 gallon/day addition to the sewer system, as well as the possibility of heavy metals in the water from the school's boiler, asked for more information before acting on the request.

Maynard A. Morgan, representing Gould Academy, said the DEP had given the school until Monday to get back to them.

In a June 14 letter, John M. Glowa, Sr., of the DEP bureau of water quality control, wrote that the discharges from the boiler drain at Gould, "being unlicensed, are illegal and subject Gould Academy to potential enforcement action. Because of the limited size of the receiving water, it appears unlikely that even properly treated discharges could be licensed."

"The Academy therefore should make every reasonable effort to find alternate disposal. One such method may be disposal in the municipal sanitary sewer."

Glowa requested a response from Bethel, via Gould Academy, in writing within 30 days.

Morgan told the selectmen that someone at the DEP had said to him in a phone conversation that, "If Bethel won't let you put it in then we'll lean on Bethel."

Morgan added that the person who said it will probably deny it.

Bethel's engineering consultant John Fancs said his particular concern about Gould request was the possibility of introducing heavy metals into the system, for example, copper, and with the temperature of the boiler water.

Morgan said, "We can meter in cold town water."

"But we don't want any more (water) added into the system," Fancs said. "No clean water."

Sunday River will join regional recycling effort

By MICHAEL DANIELS

By the time ski season rolls around, Sunday River Skiway plans to be integrated into Oxford County's regional recycling program.

At a meeting last week of the directors of the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corporation, Sunday River Condominium Operations Manager Art Marshall told the directors: "We're anxious to support you and jump on board as soon as possible." The meeting was hosted by the skiway.

Marshall said that the town of Newry generates approximately four percent of the solid waste produced annually by the town in the corporation. Newry Recycling Committee Chairman, and OCSWC Director, Sig Sysko estimated that 60 percent of Newry's solid waste is the result of skier visits. During the winter, Sysko said, the average monthly tonnage of waste in the town nearly quadruples.

Now at least a portion of that will be recycled.

"There really wasn't much of an effort (last) winter for individuals to recycle," Marshall told the directors. He cited difficulties caused by the skiway's extremely high population density in the winter, and the problem of finding suitable space for the town's recycling containers.

"The problem is how to simplify the collection process so we can participate as fully as possible," he said.

Auction fails to move Locke Mills Marketplace

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Two dozen curious and/or entrepreneurial local people, along with a scattering of lawyers from away, turned out for last week's auction of the Locke Mills Marketplace.

But despite auctioneer Peter Zafirov's repeated insistence that they were passing up a great business opportunity, no one came close to offering the price its owners were seeking.

In the end Zafirov knocked the property down to Raymond Green & Co. of Boston, the mortgage holder, who had reserved the right to bid.

Following the auction, Green representative Steve Murra said the company will continue to try to market the property through Early Real Estate.

Broker Pat Early said that prior to the auction there had been some interest in the property, but prospective buyers had balked at the price—$460,000—that Green & Co. had been asking for it.

Green acquired the property by foreclosure in November of last year, citing the failure of its owners, David Mero and David Brunett, of Massachusetts, to make payments on a $300,000 loan taken out a year earlier.

Mero and Brunett had tried unsuccessfully to re-establish a supermarket business at the property.

Other than Green's own bids, the highest offering at last week's auction came from Carl Glidden, owner of the Bethel I.G.A. But Glidden's top bid was for $150,000, far short of the amount ap-

Comp time questions

The Bethel selectmen on Monday night approved several amendments to the town's personnel policy (see story beginning on page 1). But they refrained, and rightly so, from approving an amendment to Section 20 (g), Compensatory Leave, for salaried employees. If adopted, the paragraph would have formalized a "comp time" policy of one hour of comp time for every hour of overtime worked. The policy, as written, is sloppy—and really quite generous. First and foremost is the apparent assumption of a 40-hour work week and an 8-hour day. When, specifically, for example, does overtime begin?

And, although comp time must be used within six months, how much overtime will be allowed to accumulate?

In a time when private sector supervisors expect to work 42 to 48 hours a week, and more during crunch times like budget preparation, do salaried Bethel employees begin to accumulate overtime at 40 hours or is that, like the private sector employees, just part of their job?

While we don't advocate working any employee too much, neither do we think comp time should be allowed to accumulate into a month of extra vacation, such as that accumulated by Town Manager Rodney Lynch recently.

Nor do we think that a 42-48 hour work week, at least during certain periods of the year, is excessive. And if an employee is consistently working excessive overtime, it would make sense to look at the employee's time management skills, or at ways to redistribute the work load, before jumping into an open-ended comp time policy.

THEFT AT TELSTAR

To the Editor:

A very disturbing occurrence has taken place this summer at Telstar's summer school: theft.

I've been stewing about this incident for a few days not knowing where or how to ventilate my frustrations and I've concluded that a public statement is in order. How come? Because there's no other better way to reach students, parents and members of the community than through a public forum.

The message I feel most compelled to communicate is that this type of action damages future summer school opportunities.

As students you may think: "That's no big deal because why should I care about what happens down the road. Besides, summer school's a drag anyway and I was forced to come here in the first place." But with or without force, the reality has been that many students have benefited from summer school. Many are even enjoying their experience. Therefore, for potential summer school students, the possibility of being denied this positive experience is a tragedy.

What students don't realize is that certain people behind the scenes have bent over backwards not only to organize the summer school but to keep the program alive. And why? Because some people really care. They care about helping kids develop a better sense of self-esteem. They care about giving kids who have failed a second chance.

These people refuse to "buy into" the idea that "bad" kids are perpetually bad. When this type of selfish event takes place, people lose their motivation to care and something inside dies.

I feel anger and sadness about such an incident because it generates feelings of mistrust and fear; unsettling emotions which are personally and socially destructive.

What's such a shame about theft is that the behavior of one person can impact the outcome for others, so the doors will now be shut to everyone for fear that they are suspect.

One last note: Hokey as it may sound, the Golden Rule is meaningful. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" speaks about caring for your fellow human being. Stealing from people expresses contempt not caring, something to think about.

PROVEN DANGEROUS

To the Editor:

Jet skis have proven to be dangerous. I will briefly summarize an article from the Bridgton News, March 16, written by Betsy R. Moriarty, describing "a spirited appeal" by Joe C. Irish (President of the Congress of Lake Associations and a member of the Maine Boating Commission) which took place on March 3, 1989 at a public hearing in Augusta on boating problems.

"Safety." Two jet ski fatalities occurred in Maine in 1988, one in Naples (a 15-year old boy) and one in Madison (a 16-year old girl). A 16-year old girl was killed in Utah on Lake Powell in 1990. There probably have been other deaths.

Jet skis are dangerously unstable,

It is a skateboard ramp, set up last week, which provides skateboarders in Bethel with a place to practice their skills and to just hang out. Davidson said the ramp must be kept locked, except when the three keyholders, himself, Twitchell and Greg Corrin, are around, to comply with insurance provisions. What are forests for?

Many of the natural resource issues that divide Americans most bitterly are publicly argued on grounds that camouflage the real value difference involved.

Consider the national forests as one example. Originally chartered as lands where multiple uses would be encouraged, they are increasingly whipsawed between polarized constituencies. As the U.S. Forest Service has attempted to develop long-range management plans, the controversies have become even more bitter.

Environmentalists are convinced that the agency has become far too development-oriented. In the accused of wanting to "destroy" the forest for quick profits. The forest production industry, convinced that the environmental community is out to eliminate all logging from the national forests, feels that the Forest Service and the courts have erred in preservationist pressures and ignored the needs of businesses and communities that have grown dependent on national forest timber. Industry accuses environmentalists of "locking-up" and "wasting" natural resources.

As the issues get debated in a "us-versus-them" mode, the basic value questions involved get blurred. What is at stake are fundamental differences of opinion about what forests and their resources are for, what role people should play in their management, and how the "public benefit" from those lands is to be defined.

To what extent, and at what rate, are natural resources to be appropriated for human benefit and use?

How much is that judgment altered by the fact that a particular resource is in public rather than private ownership? Are natural resources most productive and stable when they are left to be affected only by natural forces? Are those two values—productivity and stability—the major ones we should consider?

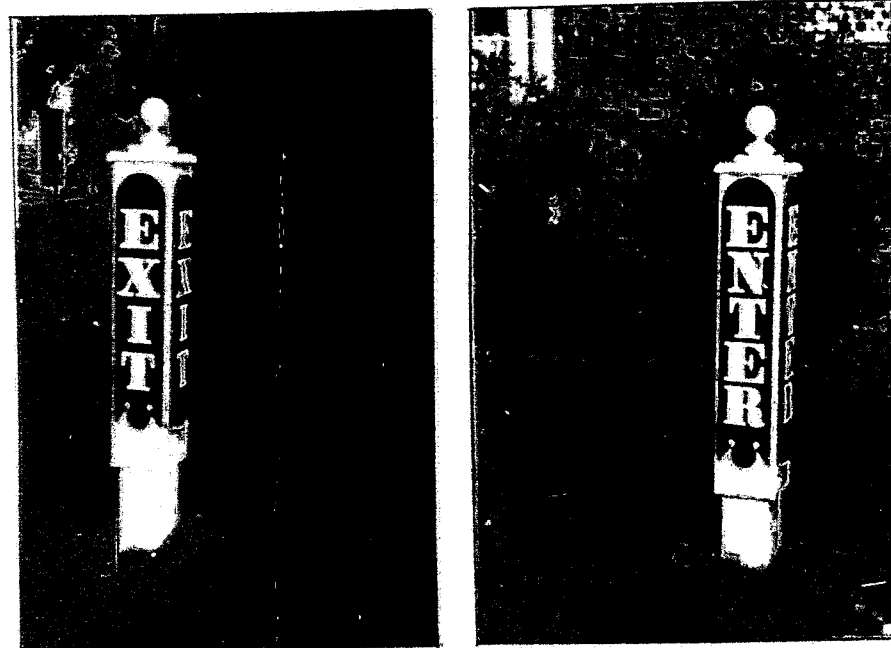

These are the questions that deeply divide people, at least in part because of differing views about the appropriate place of humans in the natural world. Some believe that the primary, if not the only, function of natural resources is to serve the needs of people. A tree left to die of over-maturity has been "lost," as has a gallon of water that flows down a western river to the sea. To suggest to these people that some dead trees may be needed for wildlife habitat, or as part of a recycling system needed in order to maintain long-term ecosystem stability, will likely result in strong reactions. In that value system, trees are meant to serve humans, not to be "lost" to rot.

At the other end of the scale are people who are convinced that when trees are harvested, the forest has been destroyed, even if a new crop of trees is planted. Most forest scenes immediately after harvest are not pretty—especially if the slash left after logging is burned. Yet if natural regeneration has been encouraged or if new trees are planted, the forest will rebound into a vigorous growth within a decade or so. To the forester, who thinks in terms of 50 to 100 year cycles, this is normal. To the forester's critic, it is a needlessly destructive human intervention. The debate is heightened by incidents which appear to bear out one or the other points of view. Reforestation has sometimes failed, so that soil erosion is rampant or competing vegetation has captured the site. Those instances can be held up as examples that experts don't know what they're doing when they attempt to manage forests. On the other hand, foresters can point to official wilderness areas in the eastern United States which are a direct result of human management of lands that had been completely logged over in the past.

Although such examples offer an endless supply of material for arguments on one side or the other, they do not ultimately demonstrate the rightness or wrongness of a particular point of view on the wise use of resources. What is needed today is a much stronger focus on the values being promoted by the antagonists. How can we describe the balance between use and non-use that represents a "wise relationship" between humans and the natural world? What kinds of uses are "good" uses? Are the original purposes behind public ownership of forestlands, embedded as they are in earlier value judgements, still relevant? To whom, and in what time frames, do the costs and benefits of diverse land-use strategies flow? How should they flow, in the interest of fairness and intergenerational equity? These questions need to be debated—at least in the case of the

FUND-RAISER FOR CPS/EBS

To the Editor:

In the fall of 1989 parents of school children in Crescent Park and Ethel Bisbee Schools got together to form a CPS/EBS Booster Club. Officers for the club were elected with Althea Stevens as president, Joanne Korhonen as treasurer and Malinda Seames as secretary. The main function of the Booster Club is fund-raising, with monies spent on school activities and on donations to Crescent Park School and Ethel Bisbee School. The main fund-raiser this past year were a Spirit Club Raffle and selling of chocolate bars.

Activities and donations coordinated by the Booster Club this past year were as follows:

- * Sleigh rides, visiting of Santa and caroling of Christmas songs for the families of the school children.
- * Selling of Spirit Pride clothes. This was embossed with the logo of the school and the Kids Are Special logo on sweat-shirts and duffel bags.
- * The Easter Bunny visiting the younger children and distribution of Easter Eggs.
- * May baskets for all children in grades K-5.
- * Donation to Ethel Bisbee School for shirts on EBS Mountain Day and EBS Field Day 1990.
- * Donation to the D.A.R.E. Program.
- * Donation to Crescent Park Young Authors Day.
- * Ice cream Sundays provided on student appreciation day.

Our next fund-raiser will be held on Mollycrock Day, July 21. With many thanks to Stan Home we will be set-up on the lawn of the Moses Mason House. We will be conducting a dart game, jail, face painting and the selling of chocolate bars, shirts and club buttons. Please stop by and support the cause with your donations.

The Church of the Open Door, a non-denominational religious group, has held church services in this old chapel during the past 10 months and is collaborating with the North Woodstock Community Club in its restoration efforts.

Accomplishments to date include: major roof repairs, addition of combination storm windows and painting the exterior of the building. Also a new chimney has been built and an oil-fired furnace installed.

Work in progress consists of complete renovation of the interior of the building. A church work party, held on July 7, stripped the walls and ceiling of old lath and plaster which will be replaced by sheetrock following rewiring and insulation work. George Haines of East Bethel is the carpenter.

Remember, all monies raised go directly to the school children in school activities or donations.

Volunteers to operate the booth are welcomed. Call 838-3745 for more information or drop by on Saturday. Any help will be appreciated.

PINHOOK RESTORATION

To the Editor:

The year 1990, the 175th anniversary of the Town of Woodstock, will be remembered and celebrated by a few people for what is now occurring in North Woodstock, better known by many as Pinhook.

Restoration of the old Meeting House there is underway and this historic building is in use again.

Constructed during the Civil War years by the Woodstock Union Society (incorporated in 1858), this meeting house was built for temperance meetings, religious services, social activities and lyceums.

Used mostly as a chapel or church during intermittent periods of its 140 years of existence, it has stood unused and badly in need of repair in recent years.

Herman Cole, the oldest resident in Woodstock, resides across the road from this meeting house and has motivated the community to action to prevent its demise.

The North Woodstock Community Club, an organization formed in the 1970s but inactive for more than a decade, was reactivated in August, 1989, and is in charge of the restoration project.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

In addition to the well-known period house museum, the Bethel Historical Society operates a research facility that attracts researchers from all parts of the United States.

Many of these visitors are genealogists who have traced a particular ancestor to the Bethel area. Other researchers are academics who have found that the Society possesses an amazing range of materials relating to western Maine and the White Mountains.

These researchers are often connected with an archaeological or resource survey and find the collections of the Bethel Historical Society very useful. Architects and historians also have spent much time examining the resources of the Society in writing books.

A good example of the latter is Thomas Hubka, who spent many hours in the Society's Eva Bean Research Room during the research stage of what became his award winning book, "Big House, Little House, Back House, Barn: The Connected Farm Buildings of New England."

The research room is open Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by appointment, 207-824-2908.

Important upcoming dates for the Bethel Historical Society include Sudbury Canada Days which will be held this year from Aug. 10-12.

The Maine Kimbells will be meeting at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Aug. 19. The 25th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will be held on Sept. 6.

The next issue of the Society's quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," will be going to press shortly. It will feature an article on the history of Bethel's Railroad Street. Anyone wishing a complimentary copy should write the Society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Me. 04217-0012.

Australian visitor learns from Oxford County conservationists

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Among the inhabited lands of the world, Tasmania is about as far from Maine as it is possible to be, but a visiting environmentalist from that antipodean island recently found that environmental problems are much the same the world over, and that there was a lot she could learn here about raising environmental consciousness back home.

Tanya Stadler, a project officer for Australia's National Soil Conservation Program, spent last week exchanging ideas with staff from the Oxford County Soil and Water District and other Maine conservation organizations, including the Maine Audubon Society and the Maine Association of Conservation Districts.

Stadler's visit to Maine followed a three-week course at the University of Wisconsin, where she studied techniques for teaching teachers to teach soil and water conservation.

When she returns to Australia, Stadler said, she will be responsible for setting up a similar program for teachers in Tasmania, an island located off the southern coast of the Australian mainland.

Stadler said that Australian environmental consciousness was raised abruptly in 1983, when a massive dust storm swept over much of the country, including the port city of Melbourne.

In part as a response to that event, the Australian government designated the 1990s "The Decade of Land Care." She said her program for teachers is one aspect of that ten-year-long effort.

Teaching teachers, she said, has an in-built "multiplier effect" that makes it one of the more effective ways to spread the environmental message.

OCSWD Education Coordinator Jim Chandler hosted Stadler's visit to this area and shared with her a number of teaching techniques that have been developed locally.

Stadler said she was especially impressed with the multiplicity of Chandler's approaches.

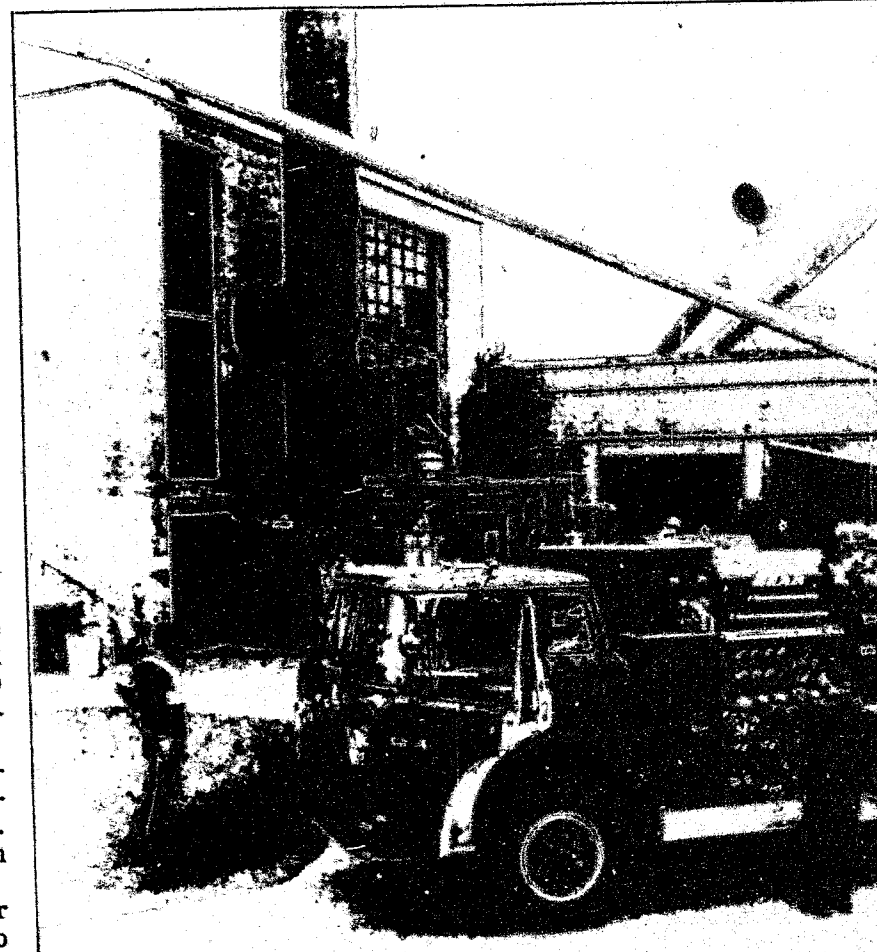

"He has made me realize that I have to look at different ways to approach conservation education," she said.

She pointed, for example, to the statewide environment for high school students and, more locally, to the SAD #44 Kids for Trees Project on P.H. Chadbourne Co. land in Bethel.

Chandler said the Kids for Trees Project helps instill in school children a long-term view of environmental resources. Stadler said such an element has been lacking in the Australian program.

She added that, on a personal level, her visit to Maine added a small element to her own inventory of environmental knowledge.

She arrived with stereotypical images of the rocky coastline and colorful fall foliage, she said, but was unprepared for the hills and forests of western Maine—and for the "closed-in" feeling they give to a visitor from the big-sky continent down under.

GILBERT MANUFACTURING—Firefighters from Greenwood and Woodstock on July 11 quickly extinguished a late morning fire in duct work at the wood products plant on Route 26 in Greenwood. The fire reportedly started when a piece of hot steel came off one of the woodworking machines and was sucked into the ductwork which carries sawdust out of the plant. (Photo by Christy Cross)

All four tires punctured on new Bethel cruiser

A nighttime marauder or marauders punctured a total of 16 tires on four vehicles July 7, including all four tires on the new Bethel police cruiser.

According to Bethel patrolman Dale Bellman, a male knocked on his front door at 2:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 7, and asked to use the phone. Bellman, who had the night police rotation that Saturday and had the police cruiser parked outside his West Bethel home, reported he did not catch the male's name, but told him to find another phone to use.

Bellman said after the male left, he checked the cruiser and found no problem.

However, at 6:30 a.m. Bellman found all four tires on both the cruiser and his personal vehicle had been punctured with a sharp object.

And, when he called Warren Corliss to ask for a ride to the police station, Corliss, a reserve police officer, reported that the tires on both his and his son Richard's vehicles had similarly been punctured. Both the Corliss vehicles had been parked on the east side of the Mountain View Country Store in West Bethel.

According to Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell, the tires on the police cruiser were replaced the same day and police are continuing to investigate the incident. There are suspects, Stowell said.

Police report Bethel

On Thursday, July 12 at 4 p.m. Bethel police received a notice from the Oxford County Sheriff's Department to be on the lookout for a specific car, which Bethel police spotted on Route 232 at 5 p.m. and stopped .2 miles south of the Gore Road. Bethel police held the driver until Paris Police arrived.

On Tuesday, July 10 at 3 p.m. a Chandler Hill resident reported a car passing improperly on Route 26 in South Bethel.

On Monday, July 9 at 11 a.m. the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce requested extra police patrol during the Molyokett Day road races.

On Sunday, July 8 at 7:20 a.m. police received a report that vehicles have been driving on the runway at Col. Dyke Field.

On Saturday, July 7 at 7:22 p.m. a Bethel police officer engaged in a high-speed chase, on Route 26 northbound, north of Bloody Street, to apprehend a motorcyclist who had been clocked speeding.

At 8:10 a.m. a West Bethel resident reported a car fire which he had helped put out. The car was on Route 2 in Gilead.

On Friday, July 6 at 11:48 p.m. a Bethel police officer on Route 26 near Lowe's Saw Shop clocked a car traveling south at 72 mph in a 50 mph zone. The officer reported the vehicle took off at 100-plus mph with the officer in pursuit. The officer reported he slowed down and lost the vehicle, however, when he reached the business district of Bethel.

On Thursday, July 5 at an unspecified time police received a report of barking dogs at a residence on the Middle Intervale Road.

At 11:44 p.m. a Middle Intervale resident reported that while traveling east on the East Bethel Road she was prevented from passing a vehicle in front of her.

At 11:02 p.m. a Bryant Pond resident reported a vehicle off the road on the East Bethel Road near the sand pit. The person also reported that an apparently intoxicated person was near the vehicle. When police arrive, the vehicle had departed.

Newry flea market and school reunion planned

The town of Newry will hold a community flea market on Saturday, July 15, as part of the town's ongoing Maine Street '90 celebration.

The flea market will be held in front of the Town Office if the sun is shining, inside the building if it's raining.

Other upcoming events include a reunion of teachers and students from the Newry schools, to be held Sunday, August 12.

The celebrants will gather at the Sunday River School at 1 p.m., then move to the town office.

More information on either event can be had by calling June Swan, at 284-2124 or 824-9123.

Senior citizen menus

Thursday, July 19: Stuffed cabbage with rice, sliced carrots, biscuit, fresh peach.

Tuesday, July 24: Shepherd's pie, hamburger, corn and potatoes, biscuit, apple crisp.

Thursday, July 26: Italian sandwich with ham on a bulky roll, potato chips, banana.

How to use our factory stores:

1. If you don't understand the pricing, just ask. The discounts we offer are from 35 to 65% off our regular prices, and sometimes we mark down an item several times. So look for the latest markdown.
2. If at first you don't find your size, try looking one or two sizes above and below. We probably do have your size—only sometimes sizes get mixed together.
3. Leave yourself plenty of time to explore. You never know what you'll find. Some of our items are out-of-season or discontinued from our catalog. But you always can find a wide variety of first-quality items, samples, factory seconds and slightly imperfect products at substantial savings from regular prices. Plus everything in our factory stores is 100% guaranteed when you return it with your receipt.
4. Visit us often and when other people don't. All of our stores receive truckloads weekly, so there's always a new selection. The best shopping is when it's quiet—mornings right after we open and evenings during and after dinner.
5. Get to know your local factory store, and visit the others when you have the chance. Each store is different, and all will surprise you. Freeport receives deliveries daily. Best buys sometimes are samples (not available at other stores). North Conway was our first factory store, and they receive shipments several times a week. You can find discounted sporting equipment, and sometimes furniture on the second floor. Ellsworth is our newest store. The best days to shop there are Tuesday and Friday, right after weekly shipments are shelved.

Save an extra 20% off already reduced factory store prices July 20-August 12!

Substance abuse program to debut in county

Community Concepts of South Paris recently announced a new innovative program of Substance Abuse Prevention directed toward at-risk youth ages 12-19 and their families in Oxford County.

In introducing Debra DeMuth as the new Youth Program Specialist, Community Concepts' Executive Director Charleen Chase noted a growing need for a program in Western Maine that works closely with teens in building self-esteem as well as both family and community support.

Funded as a pilot project with a grant from Medical Care Development, a non-profit health services education, development and research organization based in Augusta, the program will be offered in six-month cycles to youth for whom substance abuse may become an issue.

"It is our goal," says DeMuth, "to equip teens and their families with the resources necessary to avoid drug dependence and the use of alcohol or other drugs. This is not a treatment or rehabilitation program. Rather we seek to prevent the cycle of alcohol and drug abuse from occurring in the family."

A seven-day wilderness experience conducted in cooperation with Outward Bound in the Bethel area is a central feature of the program. Scheduled for fall 1990 and spring 1991, the highly regarded Outward Bound program developing outdoor skills and personal growth will be followed by weekly peer group discussions focusing on problem-solving and decision-making. Limited to 10 participants for each six-month cycle, each group will also develop a community service project to foster positive community involvement.

Parenting skills and family support services will be available through trained volunteers, parents who have successfully raised their own children through the teen years.

Identified as "Natural Helpers," they will be available for home visits on a regular basis to teach specific communication skills and management techniques of family issues. Bi-monthly family meetings will assess progress. Community Concepts is currently seeking parent volunteers as Natural Helpers in the program.

"Building self-esteem, making wise choices, recognizing limits, identifying options and recognizing the power to choose, these are major elements in our Substance Abuse Prevention Program," says DeMuth. "We welcome referrals of individuals and families who may benefit from the program."

Volunteer parents who would like to participate in training as Natural Helpers should call Substance Abuse Prevention at Community Concepts, 743-7718.

Middle Intervale Meeting House Society meets

The June meeting of the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society was held on July 9 at 7 p.m. at the Meeting House in Middle Intervale with newly elected President Lynn Boschetti presiding.

Plans for summer activities are well underway.

Young students from the Chapter 1 Summer School Program at Ethel Bisbee, with teacher Joleen Shimamura, will visit the Meeting House in Middle Intervale to learn about its history from vice president Geraldine Howe.

Oxford Pomona Grange

Bear River Grange, Newry, hosted Oxford Pomona on June 26 serving a supper to the 55 in attendance.

Members of the State Grange Family recognized and welcomed were Connie Tuttle, Deputy and Deaf Activities Committee member; Ruby Whitney, State C.W.A. and husband Clyde; and Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee, Deputies.

Legislative chairman, Anna Woodworth, reported on an exhibit entitled "American Farmers are Always There."

Terry Bisbee announced that all subordinate winners in the needlework, quilting, stuffed toy and Christmas tree ornament contests should be at the next Pomona meeting for Pomona judging. Also the chocolate cookie judging will be held at that time. Entrants are urged to properly label entries with all information required.

Reports were given by the Deaf Activities, Youth and Scholarship committees.

Sympathy cards were sent to Maxine and Hugh Roak, Marian and Winfield Bennett and Lil and Carl Swallow. Alder River received the Attendance Banner.

The following were elected officers for the coming year: Master, Berthe Benoit; overseer, Russell Yates; lecturer, Nancy Mercer; steward, Raymond Tripp, Mary Keniston, chairman of the annual quilt show, to be held Aug. 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., reports that sales of raffle tickets for a handmade quilt are going well. Volunteers will man a table on the Bethel Common on Molycock Day, July 21, to sell goodies and raffle tickets. The drawing for the quilt will be during the quilt show in August.

"A Lyceum: Poems From Out of Bethel" by Phyllis Dock will be held on Sunday, July 29 from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Meeting House.

Jr.; assistant steward, Eriand Purinton; lady assistant steward, Madelyn Purinton; chaplain, Viva Whitman; treasurer, Anna Woodworth; secretary, Gail Butterfield; gatekeeper, Harold Canwell; cures, Elizabeth Bragg; Pomona, Peggy Blake; flora, Olive Risko; and executive committee for three years, Lettie Brooks.

The master-elect appointed the following committee chairman for next year: Legislative, Anna Woodworth; Agriculture, Carl Brooks; Youth, Raymond Tripp, Jr.; Membership, Francis Conant; Publicity, Gail Butterfield; Junior, Stacey Monahan; Community Service, Stanley Howe; Deaf Activities Ella Jones; Scholarship, Peggy Blake; and Finance, Hazel Conant.

The Pomona voted to send the lecturer-elect to the New England Lecturer's Conference at UMF, Aug. 13-16.

A short lecturer's program was presented with the address of welcome given by Raymond Tripp, Jr., former master of Bear River Grange and response by Richard Felt, Pomona master. Mystery packages were won by Myrtle Bisbee, Shirley Foster and Floribel Haines.

July 19 is Green Sash Night at the West Paris Grange meeting with a 6:30 supper.

The next Pomona meeting will be at West Paris Grange Hall on Aug. 7 with a 6:30 supper. This is Pink Sash Night with State Grange officers filling the chairs. The Grange Award for public service will be presented at this time. C.W.A. needlework judging will be held.

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

The Board of Directors met for its monthly meeting on Thursday, July 12. Besides business items discussed, an invited guest, Jim Thompson, who is the new Executive Director of the Maine Publicity Bureau (MPB), gave a brief presentation on the bureau's policy on staffing area tourist information centers.

The Chamber will be working with MPB during the next few months to develop an information center on Route 2.

The Board of Directors decided to call a general membership meeting for August. The date and location will be announced next week.

We have just placed winter ads in MPB's Maine Guide to Winter and in the New England Skier's Guide.

It was voted to have a booth at Andover Old Home Days, on Aug. 4, selling lobster rolls.

Robin Zinchuk reported that she had a meeting with the Bethel area retailer's

LIONS AND TIGERS AND BEARS—and skunks and leopards covered the steps of the Maine Conservation School last week as pupils in the kindergarten through grade two nature day camp painted themselves up as some of their favorite creatures. (Photo by Buzz Gamble) on Wednesday morning. They are discussing and coordinating advertising projects. It was noted that the wood and glass gallery is holding a raffle on Molycock Day. A stained glass bass and a marquetry bass will be raffled for two chances per $1.

The Chamber will be updating our primary response price brochure in the next weeks. Members should be expecting a mailing on this soon.

Tom McGinniss gave a brief presentation on the success of the first annual Bethel art fair which will be further developed next year.

Bill Riley reported on progress of the joint Bethel Area and Oxford Hills Chamber participation in the Eastern States Exposition in September. We are actively seeking volunteers for this project. Call Bill at 665-2228 or the Chamber office if you are interested.

Jeff Parsons gave a membership committee presentation and will be working with Zinchuk and the Board of Directors to contact potential new members within the next month and a half.

Bill Barter announced that planning is well underway for the first annual Chamber Challenge Golf Tournament to be held at the Bethel Inn on Tuesday, Aug. 21. Applications will be available next week for this fun event.

Zinchuk announced that the Bethel Area Chamber Coupon Booklet will be available starting next week. There are more than 65 coupons with value approaching $500 in the booklet. It will be on sale for $10.

It was announced that there will be a breakfast forum on "Project LandShare" on Wednesday, Aug. 15, at the Bethel Inn.

'The Banker' Benson wins hi-point in tourney

Charrain's Pool Room, West Paris, just ended its 10-week singles Eight Ball Tournament.

Out of 21 players, Ron "The Banker" Benson won highest point trophy with 84 points and top money winner.

Tied for second were Mark Herrick of West Paris and Jerry "The Jet" Hebert with 76 points.

Charlie Cole of Bryant Pond went away with Last Place Tombstone Trophy.

Pharmacy & Your Health
David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
Medication Expiration Dates
As a general rule, most medicines lose potency after extended storage, rather than becoming more potent. This can be hazardous in situations where prescription medicines are needed to sustain a regular and consistent beating of the heart, to treat infection, to prevent chest pain associated with angina, or to prevent other life threatening situations such as allergic reactions.
It is a good idea to throw away solid dosage forms (e.g., tablets and capsules) that have a foul odor, are cracked or broken, or have changed in color. Liquids that form a powdery ring at the lip of the bottle should be discarded as well. Check all medicines every six to eight months.
Purchase and use nonprescription medicines only as the occasion for their use arises. To ensure optimum potency, obtain these medicines in the smallest commercially available quantities.
Regulations regarding the posting of expiration dates on prescription medicines vary from state to state. It is advisable to consult with your pharmacist before taking any medicines that do not have an expiration date or medicines which have been stored for longer than twelve months.

Rotary Club notes

Spouses were invited to be at the Tuesday, July 10, Bethel Rotary Club meeting and many came making it a great crowd. Those attending were Jo Baker, Fumi Head, Natalie Fair, Shirley Powell, Les Barth, Pattie Parsons, Peggy Wight and Randall Harrison, as well as guests Dennis Doyon and John Caron of Bethel, Bill Newell and Al Barth of Oxford Hills, Richard Stutler of Berlin, N.H., and Mr. Cutler of Palo Alto, Calif.

David Murphy presented Rotary information which gave details about our newly formed Rotary District 778, which has 30 clubs and 2,100 Rotarians in Maine, Portsmouth, N.H. and northernmost Massachusetts (Newburyport). Murphy also made an announcement on the Rotary auction which will be held on Friday, July 20, at Telstar.

The highlight of the meeting was Jim Sysko's presentation on his role as a chaperone of the recent trip to Spain. He talked about the beaches, the heat, the mountain roads, the aqua park, the hospitality, the late nights, as well as other details. Sounds like a great time for all.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

On July 12 the Jackson-Silver Auxiliary met at the home of Mary Lyon on North Pond for an information meeting preceded by a cookout at 5:30 p.m.

In the meeting that followed, the delegates to the State Convention in Bangor last month reported on the proceedings. The Jackson-Silver Unit was one of only several which took out colors to convention and carried them into the hall prior to the opening of the meetings.

During the convention it was announced that Jeri Brooks Greenwell of the Mundt-Allen Unit in Bethel and Past Department President, will be the new National Public Relations Chairman for 1990-91.

Also, the Maine Department is endorsing the candidacy of Past Department President, Donna Light, as a future National President of the American Legion Auxiliary.

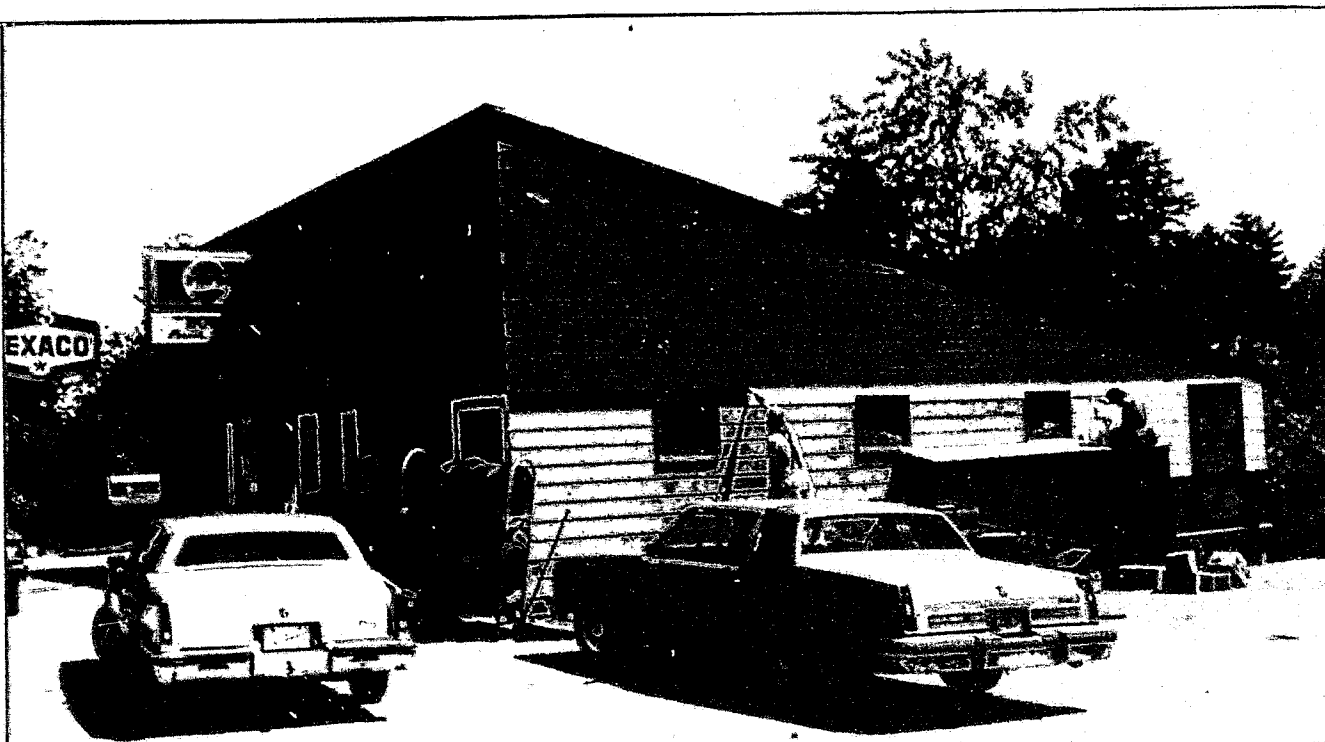

The delegates were happy to accept on behalf of the Unit an Outstanding Service Award from the Veteran's Administration and an award from the State Chairman of the Community Service Committee for submitting the best report on its community service projects.

Also at the convention, a memorial service was held for all deceased members of the past year. Included was Mary Knights who died last year.

In other business of the meeting, plans were finalized for the supper to be held at the Woodstock Elementary School on July 28. This is part of the 175th birthday celebration of the Town of Woodstock and starts at 5:30 p.m. The menu includes boiled ham, baked beans, coleslaw, rolls, apple crisp, coffee and lemonade.

The Unit voted to lend its hog machine, corn popper and coffee maker to the Greenwood Recreation Committee for use during the upcoming Little League tournaments at the ballfield.

The Unit will also be using this equipment and serving refreshments during the events of the 175th Woodstock birthday celebration.

There will be no further meetings until Sept. 8. However, the Unit will be joining with the Post for the annual family picnic on Aug. 18. Hotdogs and/or hamburgers will be provided. Members are encouraged to bring whatever they wish to as appropriate accompaniments.

Maine Walk '90 scheduled to fight against AIDS

The Maine AIDS Alliance, in conjunction with community-based AIDS service and support organizations throughout the state, will produce a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) walk to fund the fight against AIDS in the State of Maine.

The Walk will take place at nine locations in the State of Maine. They are Portland, Lewiston, Belfast, Ellsworth, Damariscotta, Rumford, Bangor, Bridgton and Fort Kent.

The Walk will be held on Sunday, Oct. 7. Sign-up for pre-registered walkers will begin at 11 a.m. The opening ceremonies featuring local and state speakers starts at noon. The Walk will begin at 1 p.m.

Proceeds from Maine Walk '90 will benefit the community-based preventive education programs and direct care services for people living with AIDS in Maine. In addition, 15 percent of the net proceeds of the Walk will be used to fund grants from community-based organizations that are not able to sponsor a Walk in their area, for outreach to areas that are currently not represented and to fund specialized grant proposals from member agencies of the Maine AIDS Alliance.

Participants in Maine Walk '90 will ask

Anne Southard named RSVP coordinator

C. Anne Southard has been appointed coordinator of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) for the southern Oxford County region.

As an RSVP coordinator, she recruits volunteers to work at a variety of jobs in Oxford County non-profit organizations. She is also responsible for fund-raising and for planning volunteer recognition functions.

Southard recently worked as assistant to the president of Maine Concepts, a public relations and development firm located in Casco.

She graduated from Aquinas College in Sparkill, N.Y., with a bachelor's degree in elementary education. Prior to moving to Maine, she taught for three years at the elementary level in Manet, N.Y.

Southard lives in Casco with her husband, Townsend. They have six children.

A week in the life of HILLARY HARRISON

Hello there. How are you? Mighty fine here.

My cousin, Kim, from Louisiana is here again. We've been having a lot of fun. But she's only going to be here for a week or so.

Between all of this fun I've been busy at work with my dad and at Mt. Abrams condos pulling up weeds.

Last week I was on my way to a friend's house and I saw this motorcycle stopped on the side of the road. I didn't know what they were looking at until I looked closer and saw a big moose drinking water from the river. I hope it was a clean part of the river.

I'm so excited. My mom is teaching me to sew. It's a lot harder than it looks, especially sewing straight lines.

Well, gotta go. I don't know about the rest of you but I sure do miss Stine.

Paula Michaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Michaud of East Andover, has been named to the dean's list of the Catholic University of America (CUA) in Washington, D.C. for the spring semester. To be named a student must earn a grade point average of 3.5 or above.

Michaud is attending CUA on a four-year Naval ROTC scholarship and is majoring in electrical engineering. While carrying a full class load at CUA, she is also required to maintain high grades in Naval Science classes at George Washington University.

Michaud graduated valedictorian of the class of 1989 of Telstar Regional High School.

Michaud is planning to continue her education in the animal sciences field. She will be working on a Masters degree in the Animal Vet Science Department.

She is employed as an animal medical technician for a veterinarian in southern Maine.

Michelle Ann Cummings, daughter of Noreen B. Russo of Bryant Pond, has received her Bachelor of Science in Animal and Veterinary Sciences on May 1990 at the University of Maine in Orono.

Cummings already has an Associate of Sciences degree in Animal Medical Technology and is a licensed animal technician in the State of Maine.

Our sympathy goes to the family of Ulfred Tucker on her passing.
Abe, Helen and Holly returned from a vacation in Scranton, Pa.
Wendy Ellis and Bimms Hansen were married July 7 at the Andover Church. Heather Ellis was maid-of-honor with Bimms' father as best man. Heather Levy was flower girl and Kade Hill was ring bearer. Jason Glover served as usher. A reception was held at the town hall. Toasts were made to the bride and groom. The cake was made by Helen Salway. Dancing was provided by Randy DeRoche, Rick Richards and Ray Duguay with Michelle DeRoche singing. The couple traveled to Canada for the honeymoon.

I am moving to Scranton, Pa., Aug. 10, and will not be writing for the column. I've had a nice time doing this. My last column will be on Aug. 3.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Today I took a stroll up the Bulldozer Road to the gate to the farm fields.

In such a short time from spring until now the woods, from bare twigs, have become a sea of verdure and young shoots of them, have contended with one another in the race. Myriad perennials are now spread all over the country, to shield the earth and tree roots from days of parching heat. How lovely they were, joining hands across the path of flutter and rustle in the breeze.

From the gate I looked across the fields and observed the rich and vibrant uncut grasslands waving under the easterly wind, sweeping like waves of light and shade. Among all this, daisies had a special place, a heart of gold. I guess that must be why they grow so profusely everywhere in these fields that meet the sky. The flower is not native to the country, but was brought here from the Old World by the early colonists. In England they are called "ox eye" and "moon daisy" and in Scotland, "dog daisy."

As I came over the hill I heard a wood thrush singing. His song changes all hours to an eternal morning. Its tones were solemn and serene, harmonizing with the summer woods. It was at home here among moss-grown rocks, rank ferns and lush mosses which hide the oozy ground, where maples cast their shade.

I came back to where I could look across the pond to Patch Mountain. By my shed there was "chippy" waiting for me, hoping that I had a few seeds for him.

I had pursued my lonely way down the valley and gazed again and again on the glorious picture enclosed in its frame and was contented with photographs on my mind.

Recent callers at Dorothy Curtis' were Ralph and Regina Leeper of Wiscasset; Ernest Curtis of Poland; Margery Halford of Newfield, N.H.; Donald Bowman of Canton; Mildred Bowman of Hebron; Albert Kimball of West Paris; Eva Felton, Kathy and Rena Curtis, local.

On Thursday I went to the camp of Carl and Lettie Brooks with them for the afternoon.

My callers were Lucy Bragg and son, Tommy, of West Sumner; Mr. and Mrs. Walno Waisanen of Rockland. He was a pupil of mine years ago and I was pleased to see him.

All the Hols were home on Sunday and helped their father get in hay.

Mary Holt has visited her grandparents this week.

Newry

By GIL SEELEY

What is that? ... Is it a U.F.O.? Is it a plane? Is it a bird? No it's Superman. ... Karlene and I were heading toward Newry Corner Saturday afternoon when we saw this "thing" in the sky coming down toward us. ... It was a hang glider with a man strapped to it almost landing on the roof of the car.

After we did some shopping in Rumford, coming back we spotted something white on Puzzle Mountain. It was two gliders we found out after we looked through our field glasses. I looked again around supper time and there was only one up there, then just before sunset I looked again and there was none. That's what I like about living in the Windy Valley—you never know what you're going to see next.

Services were held at the Newry Community Church, Sunday, July 8, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom officiating and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message was "The Way to Life." What road do you want to take? The way to destruction or the way to salvation? Scripture readings were Exodus 1:1-14, Romans 7:14-25 and St. Matthew 11:28-30.

The Ladies of Newry who bowl "for fun" were Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Louise Tettey, Olive Anderson and Gil Seeley. Rena Powers was a guest. Betsy was high on the triples with a score of 301 and also high on the singles with one string of 101 and another of 116. All went to lunch and shopping.

Anyone interested in having their name or whatever printed on the Maine Street '90 quilt being made by Freda Robertson, can contact June Swan at the town office on Tuesdays or Thursdays, 824-3123. Cost, $1 to help pay for the material.

Maine Street '90 will have a teacher and pupil reunion at the Little Sunday River School House on Aug. 12. The public is invited to attend. There will be coffee and goodies served at the town building afterwards.

Guests of June and Lee Swan have been Jim and Steve Swan, Lois and Wanda from Zephthalia, Fla. Also Jim and Phil of Jacksonville, Fla. visited for the day and had lunch with them.

Dick Angevine saw a large bear one night standing on his hind legs trying to open the door to the trash house by shaking the house. They had already put a lock on the trash house, I and a friend Vern Davis on the Reservoir Road has been having trouble with a bear getting into his trash.

Bob and Ginny Kenniston's children and relatives had their annual campout at Songo, the week of July 4. Attending were Dr. Leonard, Becky, and the movie, "Dick Tracy" in Auburn, July 11. Gerry Shimamura spent the weekend at July 8 at Nazarine Waskonda Camp on Washington Pond at Washington.

Gerry Shimamura and Lorraine Mills went to Pittsfield July 12 to Roland Huse's funeral services. They had supper with Lorraine's daughter Marsha and John Smith in Dryden. Mr. Huse's wife was once a neighbor at the Nazarine Church here in Bethel.

July 10 was my birthday. Frank and I drove to Windham as I wanted to buy a pair of shoes there and had lunch in Windham. After supper Kristen, Ira and James William came over with a cake.

July 11, Frank brought Karen and Sarah and up for the afternoon. James William was here and Sarah entertained him for quite a while. Sarah then wanted to watch the video tape, "Land Before Time."

All Inside
Last eve I walked a certain street/And met such a gloomy folk/I made great haste to pass them by, and neither smiled nor spoke./The giant elms dropped sullenly./The very sun was dim—I met a fiend and said, "I hope I've seen the last of him."

Today I walked the selfsame street/And met the folks I met/I found that had not made me leave/I would have been there yet./Of course, I've solved the mystery./'Tis very plain to see/The day I met the gloomy folks./The gloom was inside me!

So. Woodstock
By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Callers on Esther Davis on July 4 were a sister-in-law, Methyl Brown from Fayette, and a niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pike from Surrey, England. Patricia Tibbets was also visiting her mother. They all went down to the Chef's Table in Norway for dinner.

The Woodstock Historical Society has received a child's casket from Lenwood Andrews. Several years ago at the casket factory on Andrews Brook, which was run by Al Andrews and son, Harlan Andrews, they built their own caskets. The mill is still there but hasn't been used for sometime. This is owned by Lenwood Andrews, who is retired now. This represents an industry that was in South Woodstock for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews were over Friday to help me. Arthur gave the body of my truck another coat and hoed out my garden. Things seemed to grow well as we have had plenty of water on the garden. We hope we don't get the frost tonight as it said on TV. They have to be wrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clements of Ware,

N.H. and friends, Tom Malin of Westport, Conn., and Mike Donate of Hooksett, N.H., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements on Saturday and Sunday. While here they went to the Kiwanis breakfast and to the golf links to play golf. Nicholas and Eric Clements played golf with them also. Eric attended the Kiwanis breakfast. Bruce Clements is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements went to Belfast to visit Martha's mother, Charlotte Thompson, who is celebrating her birthday. They will visit other relatives and friends while there.

The Bethel family went to see the fireworks in Berlin, N.H. Even in pouring rain they went off. They also had been to the Gray area and picked strawberries. The picking was good. Their new home is going up fast.

Rudi Honkala returned from his vacation in Australia where he attended a 30th anniversary of an Antarctic expedition with Australians. He enjoyed the trip very much. Barbara Honkala returned from Alaska near the Anchorage area where she visited many friends along the coast area. Both got back on July 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings were at Mr. and Mrs. Dave Morton's camp in Naples for the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. David Dalke with Heather visited on July 7 and 8 from Marlboro at the Hastings homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hastings with Zachary visited Warren and Betty Ann Hastings. Zachary stayed with his grandparents while his parents went on an extended vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Kip visited on July 10 at the Hastings homestead.

The Senior Citizens enjoyed a picnic at Stony Brook Campground in Hanover. Mrs. Floribel Haines, Mrs. Ruth Haines, Mrs. Peggy Coolidge and Mrs. Agnes Haines attended and had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harrington visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hallman, along with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bean in Durham on July 8 for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilkes from Cumberland, Ms. Ruth Swan and Clara Holman from Dixfield and Mrs. Elsie Rand from Wilton visited the Bartlett homestead on July 8.

Mrs. Myra Foster feels much better and still walks. Stairs are still a stumbling factor. Ms. Gwendolyn Maxwell of Long Beach, Calif. and Mrs. Lynn Thomas from Hacienda Heights, Calif. are now visiting Myra. They are staying at Mr. and Mrs. John Foster's in Andover.

Dustin Howe spent July 7 and 8 at Northeast Carry on Moosehead Lake fishing. No big ones got away, but he enjoyed the trip.

Charlene Haines with children, Lisa and James, returned from visiting family in Massachusetts. They went into Boston to the Museum of Science, but were unable to get into the special exhibit by the Russian Space Program.

The Greenwood Historical Society will hold a yard sale, Saturday, July 21, at the building on Main Street from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The Greenwood Historical Society will hold its August meeting the first week of August beginning with a potluck supper and picnic at 6 p.m. at the building on Main Street.

Lee Mills is recuperating at his home and was visited by Marie York and daughter Patty from Burnt Hills, N.Y.

Lorraine Mills and Gerry Shimamura attended the funeral of Roland Huse, Thursday, at the Pittsfield Church of the Nazarene and the committal services in Wilton, then had supper with Jon and Maria Smith of the Beckey residence in Wilton.

Judith Grover Tent #17 met at the Grange Hall on Monday, July 9, with 10 members present. Crystal Chase served as president, Elsie Bonney as senior vice president, Jenny Stevens as guide. There were 30 calls reported. The report was given from the Convention and they discussed plans for a float and table at the 175th celebration, July 27-29. The next meeting will be in September. They may try and have a picnic in August. A tasting party was held.

On July 7 there were 21 people who visited the Historical Museum. Kathleen Bean has donated two card tables to the Society. Linwood Andrews has given the museum a small child's coat. Thanks to all who have donated items or have helped watch the museum.

The Firemen's Auxiliary met on Wednesday with six members present. Plans were made for the 175th celebration and the jail they are having at the Fire Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Glines and John of Danbury, N.H. were visitors of her mother, Helen Ring, on Saturday. Jennifer Stevens visited her great-grandmother, Beatrice Farnum, on Tuesday.

Ray and Sharon Crockett spent the day with their grandmother, Alice Hoyt, on Tuesday. Joseph Hoyt also visited awhile.

Beatrice Farnum, Alice Hoyt and Helen Ring called on their aunt, Helen Grover, on Sunday.

Vance Jordan was supper guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway.

Don't forget the big celebration, July 27-29, for Woodstock's 175th birthday. Friday: supper, parade, variety show and fireworks. Saturday: parade, sidewalk tables, flea market, crafts, white elephants, fish pond, food sale, auction, beans, jail and dunking booth, etc. Sunday: old fashion Sunday at church and ball games. Help make it a success.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mildred York. She will be missed.

Monday, July 9, Maureen Heath brought Amanda Heath to spend several days. Monday evening we visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Millett, at their camp.

Tuesday we visited her Auntie Brenda LaCroix and Auntie Sherry Thayer and Jason. Wednesday we visited Richard and Barbara Felt, then I took Amanda and Jason Thayer swimming.

Thursday Sherry Thayer brought Jason for the day. I took them to Barbara Felt's while I attended Mildred York's memorial services. The church was full. We took Jason home after supper and his dad, Mark Thayer, had gone to the emergency room at Stephens Memorial Hospital. He had hurt his ear and had to have seven stitches taken.

Today, Friday, July 13, we went to the sale and luncheon at Locke Mills Church. It was delicious. Stanley Heath brought some peas and were they ever good. Richard Felt, Joe Kalinowski, Joe Vatcher and Howard Anderson were visitors.

Beautiful weather, not much news.

During the last weekend of June the following found their way to Heritage Farm at the end of the road: Lou and Ellen Bernier of North Waterford; Joe, Penny, Neil and Jennie Bernier of Lovell; Melanie Farmer and Ron Dunning of Manchester; Reggie, Mardie and Jamie Edwards; Ray and Vi Bernier and Laurie, Steve, Joe and Benjamin French, from town; George Fellows and friend, Flossie Bernier, of Locke Mills; and Marcel and Doris Fontaine of Biddeford. We enjoyed a quiet Fourth.

Anita Edwards is recuperating from an operation at the Edwards home here. The Frenches went to Rochester, N.H., for the Fourth to visit his parents.

Ray and Vi entertained his sister Doris and Marcel and their son Richard and family, who are vacationing at Howard Pond. Also, Arthur Bernier and Tama and Mark and Sherry Whitson of Massachusetts.

Lori Collingwood and Joseph and Brian and Rita Brown and Bethany of East Sumner and Norma Collingwood visited. Avis Bearley of Raymond over the holiday.

Avis Bearley treated her sister, Norma Collingwood, to an overnight stay at the Balsams for her birthday, July 7.

A bear came onto Ron Jordan's porch during the night and when Ron switched on his outside light Mr. Bruin climbed across a four-foot high woodpile covering half the porch and got out by tearing out a large screen. Ron said he might have gone out through the wide open doorway where he came in. If he is a released rogue bear, he hope he will take his mischief elsewhere. Too many of us here lack protection from these fearless animals.

Margaret Mitchell went to Lube, where she grew up, for a reunion. Among the folks she got acquainted with or re-acquainted with was one who knew Dick Jordan. It is amazing to go to Rumford or some nearby place and find folks who never heard of Upton and equally amazing to travel long distances and meet up with folks who've been here or known someone here.

High Street West Paris

By VIVA WHITMAN

Rather muggy this morning but they say it will change some later today. I sure hope so as the humidity bothers so much and can cause more pain than other types of weather. The sunrise about 4:15 this morning was a spectacle to see. The sky was such a brilliant pink; it was beautiful to look at. The neighbor's dog started barking and woke me up so I looked out.

Can't say I appreciated the dogs waking me up but if it hadn't been them it would have been the crows that started a conversation back and forth from this neighborhood to one farther off. They really set up a noise that wasn't one to help induce sleep at all. Don't know what they were crowing about so much but they were crowing loud and often. That's life in the countryside.

July 4 was a busy day for Russell and I. Being a good day and as we were not going anywhere, we decided to put up greens for the winter. They have been growing good and we put up a mixture of beet, turnip and radish greens. Sounds crazy doesn't it. However, it is a good mixture and very tasty as the beet greens give flavor to the other greens. We had never tried radish greens before but they are good and especially when mixed with others. I had never heard of mixing greens together until I went to a macrobiotic supper over a year ago and they are good.

I like to mix a light-tasting green with a stronger one and that makes them both taste better. It is surprising what one can mix together and have it better than if alone.

Anyway, I was so tired when we got through with putting up greens that day that all I wanted to do was rest. We put up 24 quart containers for the freezer. However, they will taste good during the winter and save us money.

Peggy went to a friend's home for the Fourth along with Charlotte Cole. The friend goes to the dances and is post mistress at North Bridgton. She is well liked and has had friends over for the Fourth before.

Wynona came with the girls quite early on Thursday and they stayed for a couple of days with me. Wynona took an order of things I wanted in Waterville and left and I was busy all day. The girls were good but it makes a little more work for me to do.

Friday was the morning for me to go see Dr. Jealous and it was quite cool so the girls even wore their sweatshirts, but it soon warmed up. However, not enough for them to use their yard pool later in the day. Instead we went to town and did a little looking around. Had gotten groceries in the forenoon when we came back from the doctors but had an errand or two I wanted to do myself so took the girls in the afternoon and away we went.

Have put up some snow peas as well as the greens, so far, but no regular peas. Russell isn't as pleased with his peas this year as they haven't done as much as usual. Don't know quite why but just haven't. The rest of the garden looks good and if we can keep the woodchucks out, we hope to have a good crop this year. We have gotten three woodchucks so far and hope the rest stay away but who knows when one will wander in? We keep close watch up toward the garden to be sure one doesn't get here without one of us seeing it.

Wynona came for the girls early on Saturday morning as they planned to go to the ocean or somewhere with them. Michael didn't have to work so they were off for the day. Hope they had a good time.

Peggy and Russell went to the dance at West Paris in the evening and had a good time. Russell said they had a good crowd, but not enough but what it was good for dancing. If the floor is too crowded it makes for hard dancing.

Peggy's daughter, Loretta Merrill, from West Bethel visited her on Sunday for a while and came in here for a few minutes.

Lawrence and Grace Yates got home Sunday afternoon after being away for a vacation with their motor home.

In the evening, Peggy went to Bryant Pond for a meeting to help get things ready for the variety show to be held at Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond on July 27. The committee has worked hard to come up with a good show and hope lots of folk turn out to see it. It will start at 7 p.m. and admission is $5 so come and enjoy. There will be lots of goings on during that time as it is the celebration of the 175th birthday of the town of Woodstock. Lots to see and do during that weekend and maybe I should say Friday and Saturday, as those are the days when so much will take place.

The Wilcox Workers are putting on a supper at the Grange Hall Friday before the variety show and there are to be other things going on at the Hall during the weekend. I'm not sure what time the entertainments are to take place so watch for advertising where it is concerned.

Yesterday, Monday, was hot and muggy and not too comfortable a day weatherwise but at least we didn't get the heavy showers they had predicted earlier. Put up a few more snow peas and went to town in the afternoon for some necessary things.

Charlotte Cole came to have supper with Peggy and afterward we all played 63 for the evening. We enjoy it so much when Charlotte comes to make a fourth player. It was a good evening of entertainment even if it was hot and muggy.

July 19 will be Green Sash night at West Paris Grange with a 6:30 potluck supper preceding the meeting.

Marcia Baxter spent the weekend in Skowhegan and attended the wedding and reception of her nephew while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lovejoy entertained guests on July 4. There were friends and family at the gathering and all had a good time. Mary said she ate too much as usual but who doesn't at such a time?

Someone has borrowed a stainless steel bowl from West Paris Grange Hall and it would be appreciated if it was returned. It is an extra large one and is needed there. There should be a name tag on the bottom with the West Paris Grange name on it, unless washed off, so would the borrower please return the bowl. It will make all happy. Thank you.

Hope no one melted yesterday with the heat and hope the humidity goes down as they are saying this morning. Take care one and all and have a good week ahead.

Linen parties seem to be very popular around here. Two of my neighbors each had one Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Hoyt of Bryant Pond visited Helen Grover on Sunday. She also made me a dooryard call. I was awfully glad to see her.

The Rev. Wilcox was in town one day making calls.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor of Nashua, N.H. visited me for a few days also with son David and friend.

Eleanor Nelson and her sister, Frances Grant, are having the oak all cut from their property in Albany.

Mrs. Sheryl Barnard and three children of California are visiting their parents, the Albert Nelsons, for a few weeks.

The Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19, met Wednesday, June 27 for their regular meeting at Leslie Dean's home following a picnic supper of hot dogs, hamburgers, salads, etc.

Before the meeting, a flag retirement program was held on the front lawn. Reports were given on the recent Department of Maine D.U.V. Convention which was held at the Howard Johnson Motor Hotel in Waterville. Six of our members attended.

It was reported that Thaxter Littlefield, a member of our community bought a large flag and donated it to be used on the large flag pole outside the K. of P. Hall. He put a lot of time and effort and interest into this project for which we are very grateful.

Secretary Joyce Gouin read from the very first reports, made when our organization was first formed in Stoneham in 1924, which was very interesting. The subject of a safer stove for our meeting room was discussed. Eleven members were in attendance. Our next meeting will be held Sept. 26 at the K. of P. Hall.

June 29 it was learned that our Tent president is going to get a cemetery stone for one of our charter members, Mary E. Henderson.

public lands—directly. To hide them behind the smoke screens of arguments about "below-cost timber sales" or "wilderness lockups" serves more to maintain antagonism than to establish a workable policy guide to America's public lands.

Written by R. Neil Sampson and originally published in the Fall 1989 issue of Earth Ethics. Sampson is executive vice president of the American Forestry Association and author of "Farmland or Wasteland." Earth Ethics is published by the Public Resource Foundation, 1615 H Street NW Suite 600, Washington, D.C., 20006.

maintain storage) whenever they are within 200 feet of shore, unless they are picking up or dropping off a waterskier.

For example, the headway-speed-only regulation applies virtually everywhere within the cove at the south end of Lake Christopher, including entrance to the cove, and it applies to much of the waterways connecting South Pond and North Pond.

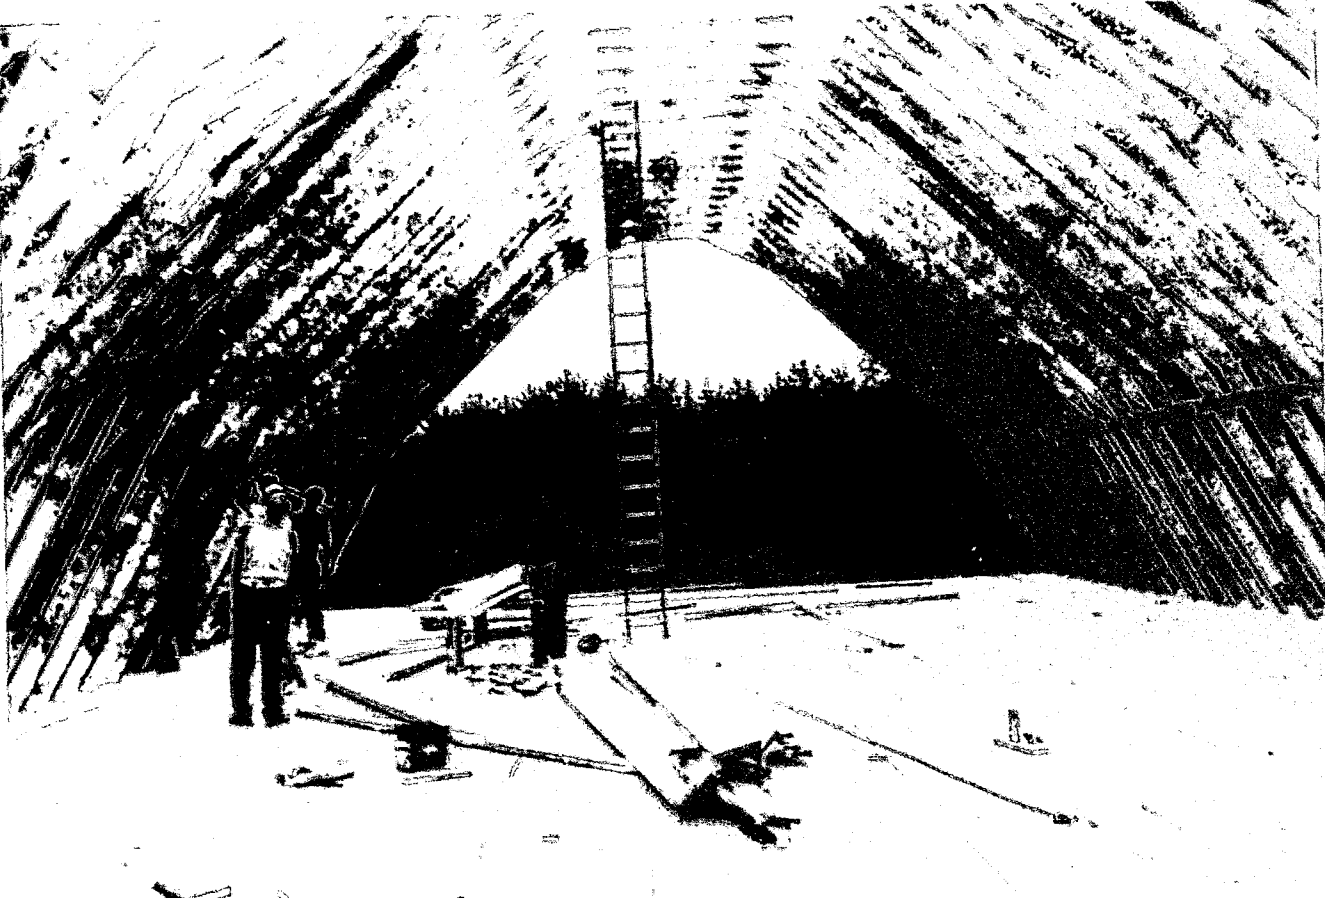

But, according to people familiar with these areas, boaters seldom confine themselves to the legal speeds.

Members expressed considerable frustration over such situations, and the general difficulty of controlling water-born scofflaws. At one point Dave Perham asked Warden Brackett if, in his wide experience, he had come upon any effective means of controlling the behavior of irresponsible boaters.

Brackett's reply was succinct—"Nope."

Saturday's meeting, however, was not entirely confined to legal frustration. Members also heard an encouraging report on the condition of their local lakes.

Jim Chandler reported that a survey conducted last summer found North Pond, Lake Christopher and Concord key indicators of phosphorus content

Pond to all be in good shape as far as the and dissolved oxygen were concerned.

The report concluded that all the lakes were moderately sensitive, and that the phosphorus input into North Pond needed to be monitored closely.

The cost ($400) of last year's report was paid for by the association, and members Saturday authorized spending $450 for a second report this year.

This year's study will look at North Pond and Lake Christopher again, and at South Pond and Twitchell Pond. Members also allocated $500 for bouys to mark the more heavily used water safety zones.

In the election of officers Saturday, John and Jim DeNormandie were elected respectively as president and vice president. Incumbent secretary Kelly Bickford and treasurer Merle Ring were re-elected. And town representatives Evelyn Weisner and Roxy Brown (Greenwood), Jim Chandler and Eleanor Wilson (Woodstock) and Nancy Willard (at large) were elected.

Bethel's sewers

The town of Bethel, under a consent agreement with the DEP, must remove five gallons of inflow and infiltration from its wastewater treatment system for every gallon of additional use added to the system.

A letter from Gould Academy comptroller Barbara H. Merrill-Lapham, listed the projects the school has undertaken in the past year which reduce the burden on the sewer system, including: "Sump pumps have been removed from the Van, Lowell and Brown Houses," and "Water saving showerheads have been installed in Davidson, Gehring and Holden Halls and the Field House."

Also, Morgan said, "Last year we took out three sump pumps and put them in to dry wells."

In order to meet the terms of the consent agreement, however, "What we're looking at is 2,000 gallons a day," said Bethel Town Manager Rodney Lynch.

Further complicating the issue is just how to determine how much sewage Gould has been putting into the system.

Morgan said, "We've just replaced two water meters that have been defective for seven years." He said on one of the meters Gould was billed for 23,000 cubic feet and that the first reading on the new meter showed a usage of 348 cubic feet.

Specifically, the selectmen asked for more specific information before acting on the request, including water temperature, documentation of usage and testing for heavy metals.

In other business, the selectmen adopted all but one paragraph and one section of proposed amendments to the town's personnel policy.

The paragraph they refrained from adopting concerned formalizing a policy for compensatory time for overtime worked by salaried employees.

As proposed, the policy under Section 20, paragraph (g) would have required that compensatory time, for work beyond normal working hours, shall be used within six months of the month of its origin. Also, that "compensatory leave shall be calculated at the rate of one hour of compensation for each hour of overtime or at a ratio of 1:1."

The selectmen decided to survey other towns to see how they do it before acting on only that part of the proposed personnel policy amendments.

Arlan Jodrey, chairman of the selectmen, said, "I'll bet there's not another town in Oxford County that's got it, not in this detail."

The selectmen voted to omit a line under vacation leave that was not part of the proposed amendments, but which said, "After six (6) months of continuous service, the full-time employee, may, however take such vacation leave as has been accrued to that date."

The line, they said, conflicted with an earlier line in the policy that said employees are not eligible for a vacation before working 12 months.

Recycling

Marshall and the board members discussed a number of possible approaches to the problem. The most workable of these appeared to be a "hallway system," in which mid-size collection containers would be placed at convenient locations in the condominiums.

Sysko said that initially containers would probably be designated for collecting newspaper, milk jugs and beverage containers.

It was also suggested that such a system could be used in other high-density residential structures, such as senior citizen housing.

Following the meeting, Sysko said that the directors were favorably disposed toward the skidway's proposal, and will discuss including a request for appropriate hallway containers in the application now being prepared for a state grant to be applied toward covering the capital cost of establishing a regional recycling program.

OCSWOC is applying for approximately $250,000 in state funds. A decision on the grant application is expected by the end of September, Sysko said.

Marshall said later that a number of directors had spoken with him after the meeting and said that if the state grant is denied or delayed, they would still work with the skidway to develop a recycling program in time for the upcoming ski season.

Marshall noted that Sunday River has already started an office-paper recycling program involving a number of other local businesses.

Marketplace

parently sought by Green & Co. Glidden said later that he doubted the location would support a traditional grocery business, especially with so many local mills closing. "You can't live on tourists alone," he said, noting that his own business in Bethel had dropped off considerably over the past year.

Glidden did say, however, that he had been looking into the possibility of opening a limited-selection, deep-discount grocery store, of a type that is becoming popular in the Midwest.

Aside from Glidden and Green & Co. the only other bidder at the auction was Neil Olson, of Bethel, who stopped bidding at $40,000.

Olson said later he thought the property could be broken up into a number of small business sites, including perhaps an all-night gas station and convenience store.

Among the local businessmen who showed up for the auction was Gary Savage, owner of Savages' Boiler Room in Bryant Pond. Savage did not bid on the property, but he did say that as far as he was concerned the site did have one great advantage.

"It's not," he said, "in Woodstock."

"The woods are lovely, dark and deep," but full of household trash, old furniture, dead machinery and some slob's garbage.

Highway beautification apparently never reached the woods roads and off-road trails favored by local four-wheel-drive enthusiasts.

Goeff Gaudreau of Bethel has been driving off-road for nearly 30 years, and he reports the trails have never been more littered.

The situation has reached the point, he said, where a number of local off-road riders have taken matters into their own hands.

They are heading into the woods and hauling out the trash other people have left behind.

And they are attempting to trace the worst piles back to their origins, so that the dumpers can be prosecuted.

Gaudreau said Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell has been cooperating in the effort, and town manager Rodney Lynch has agreed to allow the Bethel Landfill to accept white goods and tires the riders retrieve.

Much of the rest of the trash, Gaudreau said, he disposes of at his own expense.

ALL ABOARD—Geoff Gaudreau and his crew of volunteers head out along the Rabbit Road—not to bring back wildflowers, but to haul out some manmade eyesores.

JAMIE HALL adds a bit of no-longer-white goods to the trashy hoard.

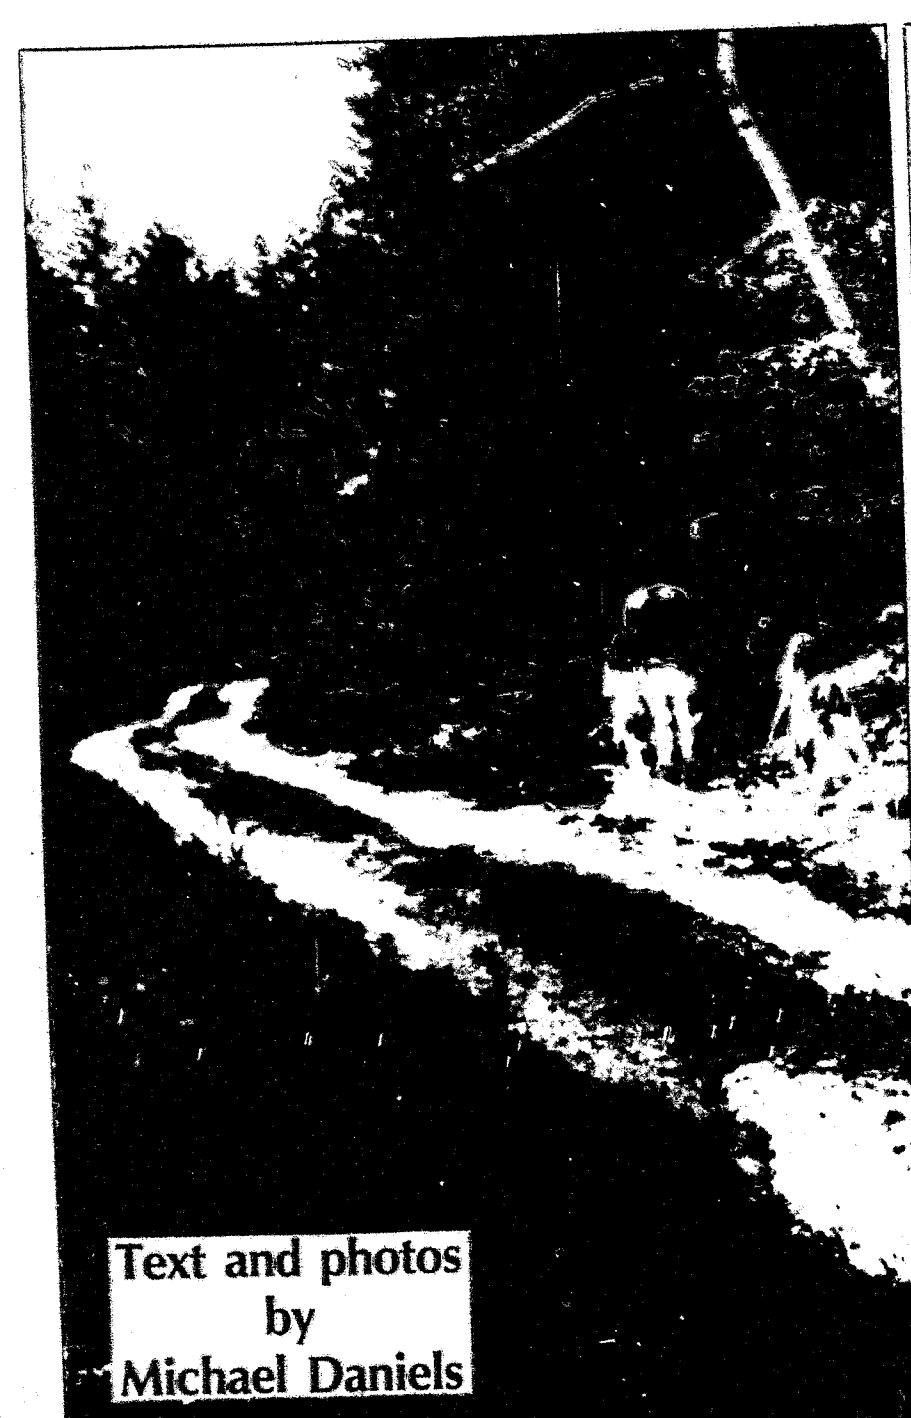

PITCHING IN—Precious Gaudreau tosses in the remains of some stripped copper cable.

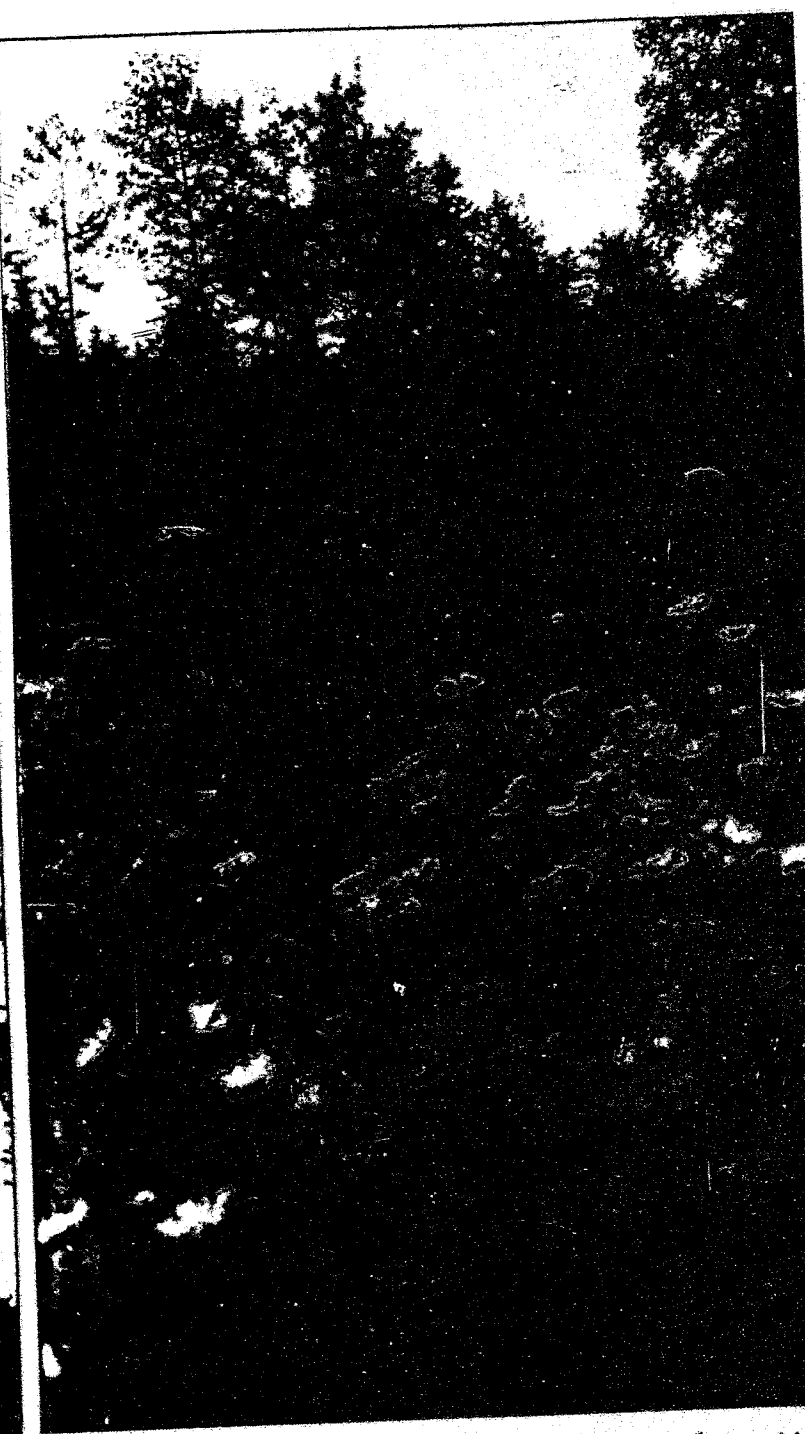

TAKING FIVE—then closes her eyes as the trailer sets off for the next pile of debris.

THE WORKS OF MAN might put their mark on nature, as have these tire tracks, but in the end nature will put her foot down.

THERE GOES THE NEIGHBORHOOD—Some critters can be downright prickly when you try to help them clean up their street.

FULL LOAD—In less than one-half mile of roadwork the crew has collected a trailer full of trash that will now be properly disposed of.

NOT PUT OFF by Porky's lack of enthusiasm, the crew fans out to collect household trash ... far from the nearest household.

Mollyocket Day frog jumping contest

The seventh annual Frog Jumping Contest will take place on Saturday, July 21 at 2 p.m. across from the Bethel Common.

Children of all ages and frogs of all shapes and sizes are invited to enter. There is a small entry fee. Cash prizes will be awarded for the frogs that jump the longest distance in three consecutive jumps.

Last year's first place winner was Janice Hersey's frog with a distance of 118 inches.

This event is sponsored by the Bethel Area Health Center and is coordinated by Pete and Vicki Rackliffe. Special thanks to Prim's Pharmacy for the donation of poster materials.

Hope to see you there.

'Music for Kids' concert July 25 in Norway

The Katakidd Chamber Music Ensemble and the Sebago-Long Lake Chamber Festival Musicians, are presenting a "Music for Kids Concert" on Wednesday, July 25, at 10 a.m., free for all children and parents. The concert will be held at the Guy E. Rowe School in Norway.

The professional symphony musicians are from around the country and include Laurie and Jim Kennedy, principal viola and cellist with the Portland Symphony; Paul Wolfe, violin, music director and conductor of the Florida West Coast Symphony in Sarasota, Fla.; Martin Chalif, violin, associate concert master of the Cleveland Orchestra; Maureen Gallagher, viola, member of several New York City chamber ensembles; George Rubino, double bass, member of the Portland Symphony; Carmelo Galante, principal clarinetist with the Omaha Symphony Orchestra; John Boden, French horn, associate professor of music at USM and principal French horn with the Portland Symphony; and Edward Brown, French horn, principal horn of the Orquestra Filarmonica in Santiago, Chile.

These talented and prestigious musicians will create a wonderful musical presentation directed for children ages three and up. Day care programs and summer camps are welcome to attend. Admission is free.

The concert is brought to you by Area

Resources for Kids and the University of Maine Cooperative Extension and is sponsored by the Mulford Trust, LeClerc Management/McDonald's and the Maine Arts Commission.

Crescent Park School and the Bethel Inn Conference Center that have been used for the past three weeks.

The new programs this week cover topics ranging from communications and dealing with covert processes, to developing your staff and team building, to interpersonal styles and effectiveness and the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator. Continuing into its second week is a seventh program, Integrating Training and Consultation.

At the Monday orientation/transition session, Steve Wight and Charlie Seashore, always popular speakers with NTL audiences, welcomed the group on behalf of Bethel and NTL, respectively. Eva Schindler-Rainman, who led the Monday session and who has been in residence for the past four weeks, will be completing her term as Overall Dean on Sunday.

NTL's informal Sunrise Seminars, held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 7:30-8:15 a.m. and open to all in the Bethel community, are continuing this week as follows: Thursday—Judith Katz and Bob Marshak, Dealing with Covert Processes; Friday—Eva Schindler-Rainman, The Power and Influence of Volunteers as Change Makers; Saturday—Robert Legris, Empowerment: State of the Art or State of the Mind; Sunday—Worship Experience (held at the NTL In-Tent), with Don Coverdale and others.

There are also two special interest meetings to which Bethel area residents are invited: Wednesday, July 18, 4-5:30 p.m. in the In-Tent—Love and Death: A Living Paradox, by Rick Pierce; and Friday, July 20, 4-5:30 at the Bingham House—Educational Opportunities in the HRD/OD Field.

Extension sets Aug. 4 for hands-on grafting

A workshop on grafting fruit trees is being offered by Bolster's Mills orchardist George Stilphen.

The workshop will be held on Saturday, Aug. 4, at 9 a.m., at the Stilphen Farm in Bolster's Mills.

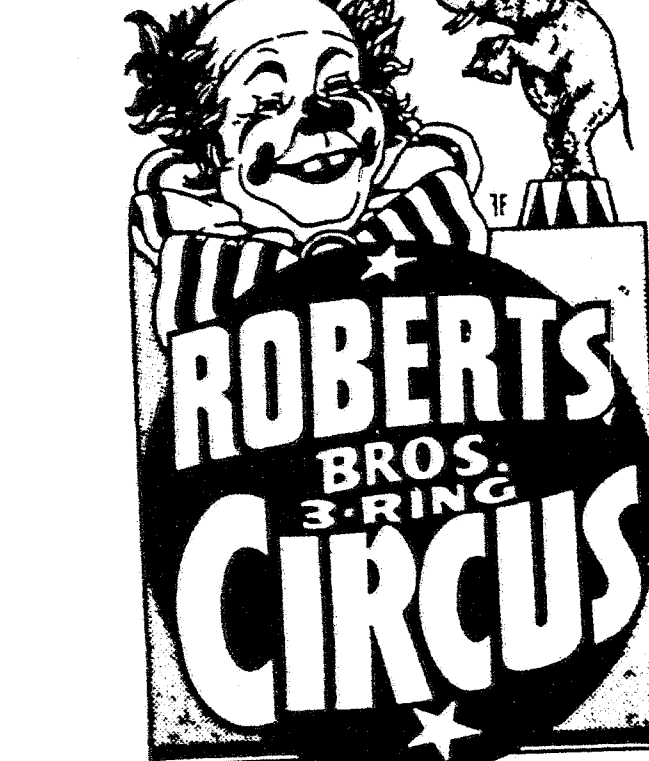

Participants will get hands-on experience on bud, whip and bark grafting techniques and strategies and will receive an Extension bulletin on grafting.

Please call the Oxford County Extension Office, 743-6329, to register for this workshop and for directions to Stilphen Farm. There is no charge for this workshop.

Join the corporate triathlon challenge

Local businesses are urged to join the exciting new "Corporate Challenge" category in the Oxford Hills Area YMCA's eighth annual triathlon.

The race date is Sunday, July 22, from Pennesseswasse Park on Norway Lake. This is an excellent opportunity for businesses and agencies to enter teams and challenge their market competitors for a day of fun, fitness and sportsmanship—all for a good cause. Entering the "Corporate Challenge" can be an incentive to initiate an exercise program within the workplace and help enhance the company's image in the community.

Participants receive refreshments, friendly hospitality and a commemorative t-shirt if they preregister. The winning team will receive a handsome trophy suitable for display. Corporate sponsors for this popular event are Burger King and Burlington Homes of New England.

The entry fee is $50 per team and all proceeds benefit the YMCA. For more information call 207-743-7184.

Obituaries

URFRED J. TUCKER

Urfred J. Tucker, 84, of Canton, died Thursday, July 12, 1990, at Rumford Community Hospital.

She was born in Andover on April 7, 1906. She was the daughter of Sidney and Minnie McMillan Philbrick.

She attended schools in Prince Edward Island, Canada. She married Linwood E. Tucker in Dixfield, April 6, 1931. He died in Rumford, April 27, 1985. Urfred was a housewife all her life. She lived in Canton for the last four years and was formerly of East Andover where she lived most of her life.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Darlene) Hall of East Andover; six grandchildren; and two great-grandsons.

Graveside services were held Saturday, July 14, at Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover.

DAVID W. HALACY

David W. Halacy, 46, of South Rumford died Thursday, July 12, 1990, at Togus Veterans Administration Center.

He was born in Rumford on Sept. 13, 1941. He was the son of Daniel J. and Evelyn Holman Halacy, Sr.

He was a veteran of the U.S. Army. He attended schools in Rumford. He was a truck driver for the Town of Rumford for several years and had also worked for the Bridge Construction Co. and as a woodsman. He lived all his life in Rumford.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Scott (Christina) Farrington of Andover and Miss Kelly Halacy of Rumford Center; three sisters, Mrs. Gladys Woods of West Paris, Mrs. Widd (Joan) Colby of Neenah, Wis., and Mrs. Wayne (Mary) Bottomly of Sherrills Ford, N.C.; two brothers, Daniel J. Halacy, Jr. of South Hooper, Utah, and Edward Halacy of Rumford Center; and two grandchildren.

Services were held at Meader and Son Funeral Home, Rumford, Sunday, July 15, with interment at Sunnyside Cemetery. Those who desire may contribute to the American Cancer Society, Box 456, Brunswick, Me., 04011 in his memory.

LEGEND OF MOLLY OCKETT

Molly Ockett, Indian maiden,
Loved to roam in every weather;
Lived and loved her Indian people
In their wigwams on the heather.
Lived and mated with Sabbatis
On the hills of sloping Bethel;
Bore him three dark-skinned babies
Eyes as dark as penny petals;
Molly learned to read and write
Learned to talk the white man's way;
Taught her children to be Christians,
Taught them how to kneel and pray;
Taught them of the loving Spirit
How He sends the sun and rain
Provides food for Indian babies
Heals their sickness and their pain;
Told them of the roots and herbs.
Goes the story of Moll Ockett
Visited and helped the sick ones
Put not one penny in her pocket
For these little deeds of kindness
Only asked the spirit's blessing;
Loved the paleface and their babies,
Spoke with gentle voice, confessing
Just to hold the white man's children
Marvelled at their eyes so blue
Loved their flowing curls so fair
And their skin of lightest hue.
Molly Ockett loved the wild woods
Bringing back the moose and bear,
Searched the mountains for its treasures
Knew of riches buried there.
Goes the story how some Indians,
In the year of 1755
Buried treasure near an elm tree,
Left some traps there for a guide;
Later years they found the big elm,
With the traps grown in the tree,
And they named the spot Trepa Corner
Masking legend, history,
Then the white men digged and rooted
Till they gave up in despair;
Told how Molly Ockett fooled them,
Found no treasure buried there.
Once Moll Ockett from Andover
On a cold and bitter day
Found herself so tired, weary
Paused at Snow Falls on her way;
Knocked at every door and pleaded
For a place to lay her head,
How they shut their doors upon her,
Then this curse upon them said:
In this place you will never prosper
For Moll Ockett leaves her curse;
Never will you grow in riches
Have no money in your purse;
Generations will know your story
Time will prove that it is so,
For the good book plainly tells you
How to plant and what to sow;
I am but a dark-skinned Indian
And I'll travel on my way,
Find a pale face with a kind heart
That will ask me in to stay.
So to Paris Hill she journeyed
To the finest place up there,
There they took her in and fed her
Gave to her their tender care;
Molly nursed the white man's baby
Said a great man it would be.
Blessed is he, her words proved prophetic,
For later, vice-president was he.
When Moll Ockett came to die,
She begged of those around her this request:
That they lay her on the green grass
On the spot that she loved best;
There her last brief moments ended,
Mary Agatha, known as Molly Ockett,
Died in Christian faith, August 2, 1816,
The last and great Pequaket.
